

On Kids using the internet at the Library

Select terminals at the public library are available for children under 14.

Internet filtering is turned on and age appropriate sites are book-marked for use. Signs reminding them of basic internet safety rules are also posted but the library and librarians take no responsibility for what they may do or see while online.

Following this guide for your child's internet use is recommended.

Internet Safety for Children

Look both ways before crossing the street. Don't talk to strangers.

These are a few of the rules parents teach you. Well, they translate to the internet.

The internet can be a wonderful place but like in the real world, bad things can occur. Prevent them from happening to you.

Read this pamphlet to learn how you can be safe on the internet.

Don't trade personal info

Don't reveal your full name, address, age, phone number or what school you go to. Don't give out photos of yourself to strangers or give out your passwords.

Cyber bullying

If someone is bullying you, ignore, block or delete them. Change your screen name and e-mail address.

Always tell a parent or adult if something happens online that makes you uncomfortable.

Follow the "Golden Rule"

Treat others how you want to be treated! Don't send mean messages.

Downloading? Don't download anything without checking with a parent or adult.

Social Networking and Chat Rooms

Think before you post or type something.

Use Kid friendly browsers

Glubble, Kido'z, KidZui and KidSurf are just a few of the kid-friendly browsers available for download and designed up help protect children surfing the internet.

And remember, don't meet anyone you 'meet' on the 'Net in person without your parents' permission.

Don't believe everything you read online. Someone may say they are a teenager but actually be an adult.
